STRINGS OF P. DUNNE, LON JOHNSON AND OTHERS REACH LOUISVILLE.

Owner Dunne Says Only Few Yearlings Are Being Broken at Saratoga—Sinfran Changes Hands—Former Chinn Racer Reinstated.

Louisville, Ky., September 9.—Pat Dunne arrived today at Churchill Downs from Saratoga with his string of six racers. He has The Peer, Crash, Sallan, Agawan, Agility and Barn Dance. The last named is a two-year-old. The long trip seemed to affect him. For awhile Mr. Dunne was alarmed over the condition of the youngster, but he finally came around all right. With the Dunne horses came former jockey Tommy Burns with the useful performer, Glucose. Burns also brought Miramar west for trainer Charles Hughes. Another arrival was Lon Johnson, who brought four two-year-olds, Redwine, Huxter, Bad News II. and Bannock Han. Redwine was purchased from P. T. Chinn, who is under suspension. Mr. Johnson was assured by officers of the Canadian Racing Association that the horse had been reinstated as soon as he displayed a bona fide bill of sale. Johnson states that J. Stockler has sold to J. S. Ward the good horse Sinfran. This racer was run up in a race at Hamilton and Mr. Stockler did not protect him against a bid of $800. The bidder disappeared in the crowd and when the horse was again offered for sale no bid was made, so Mr. Stockler retained him. Stockler had the son of Schillitall loaded on a car at Detroit ready to start west when Mr. Ward bought him and shipped him with the remainder of his string to Lexington. There were but two arrivals today from Latonia. Scott Williams brought St. Ilario and Ornamosa, and eight horses owned by J. C. Cahn came in this evening.

Pat Dunne says that only about thirty yearlings are being broken at Saratoga. Twenty-two of these are owned by E. P. Wilson, Jr., the owner of Olambala. The others are owned by J. E. Madden. Mr. Dunne says that he was informed by Mr. Madden that he had sold and traded all of his horses in training with the exception of two.

Secretary Lyman H. Davis has received ten belated nominations for the Churchill Downs stakes from Edward Corrigan, bringing the total number up to 622. The Corrigan horses, now racing in the west, will be shipped to Louisville for the fall meeting.

F. J. Pons expects to spend close to $10,000 this fall improving the farm he has purchased in Tennessee. He ultimately intends to have a nice private breeding stud there so as to enjoy racing some horses he has raised. He also expects after this season to spend around six months of the year on his Tennessee farm. Roseboro is the horse Mr. Pons recently sold to James Arthur in Canada.

Recent work-outs at Churchill Downs include a half mile in 50½ by La U Mexican, three-quarters in 1:19 by Foursome, three-quarters in 1:19½ by Macias, three-quarters in 1:18½ by Cellaret, five-eighths in 1:05½ by Enyoce and three-quarters by Chas. F. Grainger in 1:19.

GOLDEN DAYS OF THE TURF.

Reminiscences of Famous Races and Prominent Turfmen of the Long Ago Interestingly Related.

Replete with interesting reminiscences and sidelights of the golden days of the turf is a resume of the history of racing at Saratoga and famous races at other eastern tracks to which the New York Sun recently devoted two of its pages. After referring to the blighting effects of the Hughes crusade against the great sport of thoroughbred racing, the Sun goes on to say:

"But the Puritan present cannot outride and ride down the cavalier past. As we are watching tonight under the arching Saratoga elms the golden memories of the long ago come trooping back again. We hear the shouts of the thousands watching the battle between Longfellow and Harry Bassett at Long Branch resounded by more shouting thousands when these splendid champions of a faraway turf meet again at Saratoga. The hoof beats of Salvoar over the prepared track at Monmouth, when a new record for the mile was established, come back to us through the years as we listen in memory to the hoof beats of Springbok and Prekness, as they race neck and neck past the judges' stand on even terms for the Saratoga Cup.

"Those are mellow memories of mellow times, when gentlemen drank from the stirrup cup, when gentlemen were sportsmen and sportsmen were gentlemen, and when the American thoroughbred ran true to his form. Those were the days when the first August Belmont and John Hunter and William R. Travers, who together owned and raced the great Kentucky, and James M. Marvin, the first president of the Saratoga Racing Association, and Leonard Jerome, who won many a dollar on One June, and later by James R. Keene, the sturdy and grizzled vice-chairman of the Jockey Club. But individual turf history has no finer record, not even that of the Duke of Westminster, or the Earl of Rosebery or even of England's late king, than that of the Dwyer brothers when they were taken by those turfmen from the Kentucky blue grass, Chinn and Woodford and Milton Young and J. W. Hunt Reynolds, and later by James R. Keene, the sturdy and grizzled vice-chairman of the Jockey Club. But individual turf history has no finer record, not even that of the Duke of Westminster, or the Earl of Rosebery or even of England's late king, than that of the Dwyer brothers when they were taken by those turfmen from the Kentucky blue grass, Chinn and Woodford and Milton Young and J. W. Hunt Reynolds, and later by James R. Keene, the sturdy and grizzled vice-chairman of the Jockey Club.

"And then there came that later epoch when the get of Lexington, 'the father of the American thoroughbred,' and Kentucky and Longfellow and Bonnie Scotland and Virgil and Glenelg and Hinyar came to the races, and the butcher brothers of Brooklyn, Mike and Phil Dwyer, were invincible on the race courses of the east from the days of Rhadamanthus to the days of Hanover. To be sure, the measure of the Dwyers' horses was sometimes taken by those turfmen from the Kentucky blue grass, Chinn and Woodford and Milton Young and J. W. Hunt Reynolds, and later by James R. Keene, the sturdy and grizzled vice-chairman of the Jockey Club. But individual turf history has no finer record, not even that of the Duke of Westminster, or the Earl of Rosebery or even of England's late king, than that of the Dwyer brothers when they were taken by those turfmen from the Kentucky blue grass, Chinn and Woodford and Milton Young and J. W. Hunt Reynolds, and later by James R. Keene, the sturdy and grizzled vice-chairman of the Jockey Club.

"And then came that western invader, E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, lucky in mind and lucky on the turf, when he brought from the broad acres of the Santa Anita Ranch in California, 3,000 miles across the continent, Los Angeles, that wonderful daughter of Glenelg and La Polka, to measure strides with the best in the east and beat them: Mission Bell, whose tolling as she flashed by the winning post knelled the defeat of some of the smartest fillies bred in Kentucky or anywhere else, and the mighty Emperor of Norfolk, believed by Baldwin to be the greatest thoroughbred that ever wore plates, and the game Volante.

"And by and by in those golden, golden days came that lusty, crusty, fighting Irishman, Ed Corrigan, with Modesty, queen of the turf of her time; Freeland, which seemed to be fit to race for any man's money on any day and on any track,

SUCCESSFUL AMERICAN HORSES NOW RACING IN ENGLAND

Since the English flat racing season opened at Lincoln last March American-bred horses racing in England had won eighty-four races up to August 24, besides being placed in many more. This makes the American invaders a force of considerable importance in English turf affairs. The Belmont, Carroll and Whitney horses have won a fair proportion of these races, but the majority has been won by American horses in English ownership, a circumstance flattering to American pride. May 21 and July 24 Daily Racing Form published tables giving the particulars of the running of our horses placed in their races and now gives another, carrying on the story to and including the racing of August 24:

and Pearl Jennings, she that could race and win straight miles or mile heats with equal satisfaction to her owner and her backers.

"Meanwhile the brothers Lottillard, Pierre and George L.—Pierre, the master of Ranocosa and the owner of the great Parole and Troquois, the only American-bred horse that ever won the English Derby, and Barrett and Uncas; George L., owner of the great Monitor and the unbeaten Sensation and Ferida, which, like old Ben Holladay, could run better the farther she went—were battling for turf honors with the Dwyers and Milton Young and General Jackson of Belle Meade and Baldwin and Corrigan and the rest and more than holding their own. And right about here in the turf almanac may be found the turf debut of those two ultra fashionable young gentlemen, Frederick Gebhard and E. Berry Wall.

"Both Gebhard and Wall had recently come into their inheritances, Gebhard by way of honest whisky and Wall by the ropewalk. Wall was in the limelight as king of the dudes, Gebhard, quiet, self-possessed, tall and broad of shoulder and as handsome and well dressed a boulevardier as any metropolis ever knew, was the owner of Eole, the splendid son of Eolus and War Song; Eolus, by the same sire, and St. Saviour, later to become a sensational thoroughbred and a sensational sire. The speed and stamina of Eole were transmitted to Ethelbert and by him to those great thoroughbreds of today, Fitz Herbert and Dalmatian. Wall broke into the turf with two horses, Wallflower and Ghost. Phew! But it was a swift pace that Gebhard and Wall set. Double eagles to either of them were as dimes, and there seemed to be no bottom to the cash barrel of either. But there was, and poor Gebhard is slowly dying today in what to him must be modest lodgings on the border of the gay white way, which he knew and loved so well. Wall is no longer regarded as the king of the dudes, but if fashions didn't change he had clothes enough left from his halcyon days to keep him comfortably clothed for a decade or two. (Note—Frederick Gebhard has died since this article was published in the Sun.)

"Wall, as the story comes down through the years, took umbrage at something Gebhard was alleged to have said. He concluded to take up the matter and settle it in the barroom of the United States Hotel at Saratoga. Nobody outside of a very few ever knew what really took place, but the pleasantest feeling did not exist between the two young men and the outcome of it was a lot of talk about a match race between Eole and Wallflower. The match was not arranged and so far as history records that was the last personal encounter between Gebhard and Wall. But it was not long after that Eole scored a memorable triumph when from post to finish he won for his owner the famous match race against Milton Young's Getaway at Saratoga on August 12, 1881. Getaway was the favorite, but Eole won the match by four lengths.

"John Morrissey, champion prizefighter of the world, congressman and first lessee of the Saratoga track, having been gathered to his fathers, Charles Reed (still hale and hearty, though not far from eighty) succeeded to the ownership of the famous Saratoga Club and became lessee of the Saratoga track. He had made the experiment of raising thoroughbreds in the north country at the Meadow Brook Farm on the eastern shore of Saratoga Lake. Although he imported Fechtler and Lowlander from England and had among his mares the great Thora and Hentogen, the venture was not a success. Then he abandoned the north country farm, went to Tennessee, bought Exile and sent to the races such horses as Robbins and Yorkville Belle.

"Gen. Stephen Sanford had been experimenting in the breeding of thoroughbreds at Amsterdam, N. Y., with indifferent success. In the Saratoga Club one night Reed got the general over in a corner and told him he could never get size and strength and speed in horses bred in a cold climate. General Sanford is a very determined man. He usually carries through to success that which he plans. He had made up his mind to raise winning thoroughbreds on his own farm, even if that farm were in Mohawk Valley and they had to plough out the roads in winter to let even his sleighs pass. So, quite characteristically, he replied to Reed:

"Reed, you wait and see. I shall not only breed

ALL IS READY AT MONTREAL

INDICATIONS POINT TO MOST SUCCESSFUL MEETING IN CLUB'S HISTORY.

Racing Enthusiasts from All Parts of America Gathered in Canadian City and Will Be Regaled with High-Class Sport.

Montreal, Que., September 9.—What promises to be the banner meeting of the Montreal Jockey Club opens tomorrow. Gathered here are turfmen and race-goers from all sections, including a large delegation from Saratoga and New York. Blue Bonnets, the finest race course in Canada, never looked prettier than it does at present. Although the plant is a new one the club has been making improvements right along and the grading of the lawn from the grandstand to the betting enclosure will be greatly appreciated by race-goers this fall. The going promises to be good for the opening day, although the track was slow and sticky in spots this morning, following a downpour of rain last night. A high wind and strong sun dried it out this afternoon, and provided no rain falls in the meantime fast time should be the order tomorrow afternoon. Quality is well represented in the races for tomorrow. Many owners of the smaller stables have dodged Blue Bonnets this meeting in order to take in the half-mile-track racing at Toronto, while quite a number shipped to Kentucky. There are plenty of horses on the ground to fill the races, however, and sport of a high order should be the rule at the present meeting. A number of the big stables that came from the metropolitan tracks are represented in several of the races tomorrow.

Besides the King's Plate, there are offered as features the Earl Grey Cup, which calls for a journey of a mile and a quarter, a steeplechase over the full course and a sprinting race in which Jack Atkin, Pretend, Magazine, Starbottle and Guy Fisher are among those named to go. The King's Plate, which is purely a local affair, has always aroused keen interest among the French-Canadians. There are six carded in the race this year and it looks like an open affair.

All of the officials are on hand and the staff will be the same as at the spring meeting. A. B. Hendrie will do the starting, Joseph J. Burke will be the presiding judge, Francis Nelson and Major William Hendrie will be the stewards, while F. W. Gerhardt and Joseph McLennan will look after the business connected with the secretary's office.

Jockeys Eddie Dugan, McGeary, C. H. Shilling and G. Archibald were among the riders that came from New York this morning.

J. Reid, who will ride for E. R. Bradley at the Kentucky meetings, left Windsor for Saratoga last night to join the Bradley stable. The Bradley horses will be shipped to Lexington September 12. The two-year-old, Rash, which was claimed out of a selling race by Maurice Welsh, was re-purchased by S. A. Crompton at an advance of $400.

Donald Macdonald will not start again until the running of the $10,000 Dominion Handicap at Fort Erie. About thirty bookmakers put down their names to cut in at tomorrow's drawing. This number may be increased by some of the late arrivals from New York in the morning.

Albert Simons—purchased Van Den from James Rowe before shipment to Montreal.

CONSIGNORS TO LEXINGTON SALE.

That the sale of thoroughbred yearlings, horses in training, broodmares, etc., to be conducted by the Kentucky Sales Company at Lexington, September 20-24, during the progress of the fall meeting of the Kentucky Association, will be fully as important as its projectors hoped to make it, is assured. The catalogue just issued, shows 268 head listed for the sale, of which 240 are yearlings. This is a practically exhaustive list of the crop of 1909 foals available for purchase in America and it behooves those turfmen who find it necessary to replenish their racing establishments to pay some attention to this sale.

The yearlings listed are the property of the following: R. H. Anderson, 3; L. O. Appleby, 6; J. S. Barber, 1; C. W. Bean, 1; Andrew Bowdman, 1; E. R. Bradley, 4; J. N. Camden, 1; John D. Carr, 13; C. H. Carter, 1; O. H. Chennault, 13; Chinn & Forsythe, 23; Capt. Charles D. Clay, 1; Col. E. F. Clay, 1; T. J. and George H. Clay, 7; James P. Curd, 4; Horace N. Davis, 4; J. E. Deigh, 1; E. L. Featherstone, 1; A. L. Ferguson, 3; Fleetwood Stud, 7; James Forsythe, 5; John T. Gilbert, 2; Patrick Gormley, 1; H. P. Headley, 14; Hinde & Baker, 4; F. R. Hitchcock, 2; Ironsides Stock Farm, 6; Thomas F. Kelly, 1; F. D. Knight, 10; Leonatus Stud, 9; Meadows Stock Farm, 4; John H. Morris, 1; R. Morris, 1; Morris & Hawkins, 1; Dr. J. D. Neet, 6; Nursery Stud, 1; R. W. Nelson, 3; George B. Ott, 1; W. S. Payne, Jr., 1; Thomas Platt, 10; Mrs. Lizzie W. Pinkerton, 1; R. H. McCarter Potter, 7; J. J. Richardson, 1; Eugene Rucker, 3; W. Wilson, 1; Catesby Woodford, 2; Milton Young, 5.

SARATOGA STABLES FAST EMPTYING.

Saratoga, N. Y., September 9.—Most of the horses that took part in the Saratoga meeting have been shipped to Canadian and western tracks. Mrs. Lily A. Livingston's stable, in charge of the veteran trainer, Matt Feakes, and James Rowe's string, which will be handled in Canada and at Pimlico by Albert Simons, left for Montreal Tuesday, and the Wilson and Carman horses were shipped Wednesday night. The shipment of many of the stables was delayed by a scarcity of cars.

Lovetie, Herpes, Kingship and Amelia Jenks are the best horses of the string Matt Feakes took to Canada for Mrs. Livingston, and the mistress of Ranocosa is of the opinion that they will do better at Montreal, Toronto and Fort Erie than they did here. Lovetie, the smartest three-year-old of Mrs. Livingston's establishment, had a severe attack of catarrhal fever at Sheepshead Bay in July, and although he recovered sufficiently to be trained here, Mr. Feakes does not believe that he fully regained his strength.

LATONIA GETS MORE APPLICATIONS.

Cincinnati, O., September 9.—John Hachmeister, general manager of the Latonia Jockey Club, left tonight for Louisville, Ky., where he will remain several days. Matters pertaining to the fall meeting at Latonia are going along smoothly, and the little details of work necessary will be taken care of during Mr. Hachmeister's absence by Frank Bruhn.

Several additional applications for stable room from eastern owners were received today. During the afternoon there were several shipments of horses to Louisville and Lexington.
